Sep 3, 2020 The latest version of the fishing bot has been designed in order to manage the fishing process. Do you have a problem with the bot? Don't hesitate to follow instructions Development and evaluation of a biuret assay for the measurement of sodium, potassium, and chloride ions in urine. A biuret assay (Biuret) for the determination of sodium, potassium, and chloride ions in urine was developed. The method is based on the use of pyrogallol red as a complexing agent of the ions. The process is coupled with the formation of a purple-colored species, to which an acidic Fehling's solution is added. The yellow color of the solution is estimated at a wavelength of 525 nm. Standard curves were obtained from 0.05 to 0.25 M solutions of sodium, potassium, and chloride ions. Linearity was shown up to 1 M. Detection limits were 0.05 M for sodium, potassium, and chloride ions. The method was tested on human urine samples (n = 43). Calculated concentrations of sodium, potassium, and chloride were compared with reference values obtained by flame photometry and by flame photometry after NaOH-SO₂ absorption. Average recovery (n = 43) was 103% for sodium, 103% for potassium, and 102% for chloride. The method is sensitive, accurate, and reproducible. The problem with making westerners first-world, or citizen, "settlers" in the land of the "dwellers of the almond" is that they hate (or say they hate) the land. Settlers hate everything about their native land, its culture, history, laws, religions, politics, traditions, and values. On the other hand, they seem to take a
